I, _____, understand the final dollar aggregate of the sale of my consignment firearm will be the sum used for the brokerage compensation of 10% to EJI Firearms, Inc., for service rendered in connection with the sale of my firearm. There will also be a $20 transfer fee paid by the purchaser.

I understand that EJI Firearms, Inc., will display my firearm for the first 45 days with the listed high price, and accept offers at or above the low. After the 45-day period has passed I have 3 choices: 1) I can reduce the price of my firearm for another 45-day period, 2) I can choose to have my firearm advertised on GunBroker.com for another 45-day period, which will be put on a 7-day auction cycle at the low price, or 3) I can have my firearm returned to me.

Should I wish EJI Firearms, Inc., to represent me as a second broker for my consignment firearm on GunBroker.com, then the compensation fee will be 25% of the final sales amount. Once a bid is rendered, I understand it is then impossible to change/delete information or price. The auction must continue to its conclusion. EJI Firearms, Inc., will be responsible for collection of funds, shipping, or any other expenses incurred to finalize the sale to the winner of the auction.

In the event I want my firearm returned, I must be able to pass a NICS background check in order to restore the firearm to my possession.
